See the interview text below:

Hello everyone. I'm Shifra Hofman, and today I'm speaking to the writer Hannah Greenberg about her new book Keep Moving. Hi, Hannah.

Hello Shifra.

So please tell me what this book is about.

Well, it's full of information about how we can keep our bodies healthy without going to the gym. You don't need to do yoga or Pilates or anything like that. You just need to make sure that you move as much as possible throughout the day. In my book, I describe ways to do that. That's why it's called Keep Moving.

That sounds like good advice, especially since a lot of people spend their day sitting in a chair.

That's true. Many people sit for long hours at work, and then they sit in a chair most of the evening. But even when you're sitting, you can keep moving. For example, you can lift your legs up, or turn your head from side to side. Also, you should try to sit on the edge of the chair. It makes your back muscles much stronger. And try standing up from a chair without using your arms to help you – that's very good exercise for your back and legs.

But what about when you're reading, or when you were writing your book?

Well, firstly, I've taught myself to read while I'm walking. Not in the street, of course... But I walk backward and forward in my kitchen while I'm reading. It's simple, really – anyone can learn to do it. And when I write, I do it standing up, working on a tall desk. Even then, I stand on one foot and then on the other. I also do that when I'm cleaning my teeth or speaking on the phone. I try to make moving part of every moment of my life.

It sounds like hard work… Don't you get very tired from moving all the time?

Not at all – I feel great! That's not surprising – research has shown that the more you move around, the more energy you have. But of course, if you are someone who doesn't move much, then you should begin very gently – just try to move a few minutes more each day. Then, day by day, slowly increase the amount of time you spend moving. Trust me – you will feel the difference within a week or so.

Well, that sounds very encouraging. I'll certainly try to move even while I'm sitting. Thanks Hannah, and goodbye, everyone.
